The first part of the game was even but after fifteen minutes of play Olds began to weaken. From then on the local boys had most of the play.

Fruit Growers of British Columbia in Danger

The Boards of Trade of the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia are petitioning the Dominion Government, and have asked the assistance of other such organizations and newspapers, both in B.C. and the prairie provinces, in an endeavor to prevent the dumping of the surplus American fruit crops on our markets.

If successful in their petition, thousands of fruit growers will be benefitted, and the $40,000,000 invested in the Valley's fruit industry would thus be saved. If immediate action is not taken in this cause, even to drastic methods, it is apparent that grave disaster may result to the fruit growers of our neighboring province.

Government Takes Steps To Check Paralysis

Edmonton, Aug. 25.—Taking yet another forward step in the battle against infantile paralysis, the Provincial Department of Health will attempt preventative measures by treatment of incipient cases with serum from patients who have reached the convalescent stage of the disease.

Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health, announces today that in view of favorable results which have been reported from the special hospital, in the use of serum from convalescent patients, arrangements are now in hand for the special treatment of incipient cases, with a view to checking the disease before actual paralysis, and the subsequent crippling of limbs and binding of muscles.

Effective treatment can only be administered within 48 hours after the onset of the disease, and before there are any indications of actual paralysis. It will therefore be necessary for physicians making an infantile paralysis diagnosis, to get in touch immediately with the special hospital, so that the patient may be placed under serum treatment inside the prescribed time limit.

Doctors are being asked to send for preventative treatment for only such patients as they feel can be treated to advantage. Patients can only be sent into the hospital only by auto or other means, since those affected cannot travel in a train or other common carrier vehicle.

A small supply of serum is available for medical men having patients who, for various reasons, cannot be removed to the special hospital in time for treatment there. —Calgary Herald.

A Real Menace

Summer is on the wane. The nights will soon be nippy and chill, and if we have not been careful to stock up on our bank of health with a little surplus of energy during the long sunny days, we may be disgusted to find ourselves with a developing common cold.

So declares the Canadian Red Cross magazine in discussing what it characterizes as a real menace in this country. Coryza is the official name of the common cold, but the name is not very indicative of the nastiness of the disease at first blush. Coryza is a real menace. There is no other affliction that quite so universally causes discomfort or so great a loss of time for workman, business man, and school child.

A lowering of vitality means a slow-down in usefulness or production, and time lost in our busy age is a money loss somewhere, or somehow, to someone. Remembering, however, that a nation's health is a nation's wealth, we'll cease to think in dollars.

The real menace of a cold is its possible bad after-effect on the individual. As it is caused by varieties of bacteria very closely allied to those responsible for the pneumonias, for bronchitis, laryngitis, and possibly catarrh, it often leaves in its wake damages that are permanent.

When we speak of "catching" cold, we speak correctly, if by "catching" we mean getting it from the other fellow. About ninety per cent. of our colds come from him.

Very rarely one may develop his own cold, for these germs probably are ever-present in the nose and throat and will multiply and thrive should the vitality of the host be sufficiently lowered to furnish a good culture ground for their growth.

This may be effectively accomplished by avoiding fresh air and sunshine, by loss of sleep, by over-fatigue, or by living in over-heated rooms. Insufficient, improper, or excessive food or clothing assists greatly.

But for the vast majority of our colds, we may blame close contact with our neighbor who coughs, sneezes, and spits, and who uses his handkerchief to saturation and then greets us with a friendly handshake.

Ignorance of man-made laws excuses no one; ignorance or disregard of the laws of health eventually spares no one. The person with a bad cold should be regarded as having a dangerous communicable disease, and we should know enough, and our children should be taught, to avoid him. Even among people who realize this, knowledge generally outstrips practice, and on and on goes the cold.

The trouble is that the vast majority of people do not regard the common cold seriously enough. If they, or their dear ones, contract tuberculosis, or are stricken down with pneumonia, they are seriously alarmed, but they overlook the fact that the common cold may be but the forerunner of these and other dread diseases. "Oh, it is only a cold," they indifferently say with a shrug of the shoulders, ignorant or careless of the fact that the cold will quickly seize upon the weakest spot in the human body, whether it be the throat, the nose, the lungs, the heart, the kidneys, or elsewhere, and when at last realization comes that there is something seriously wrong it frequently is everlastingly too late.

"It is the little things in life that are causing all the strife," is an old, old saying. It is also what we ignorantly regard as the little things that are responsible for most of the ills from which mankind suffers. Make no mistake about it, the common cold is no little thing although we may look upon it as such. Get after it the moment its first symptoms make their appearance. Better still, exercise all those precautions necessary to prevent taking a cold in the first instance.

Finally, if you can't or won't dodge the common cold, then at least don't make it necessary for your neighbor to dodge yours.

Rust Resistant Wheat

Within Three Years New Variety Should Be Available Which Will Grade As High As the Best

Within three years Western Canada should have a rust-resistant wheat which will grade as high as the varieties now being grown, according to L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, who is spending a few weeks in the West, inspecting the work of the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory at the Manitoba Agricultural College and the various Dominion experimental farms in the West. He will also visit farms where rust-resistant grains are being produced for experimental purposes.

Demand For Farm Implements

Saskatoon Dealers Report Increased Volume Of Sales

Saskatoon implement firms record an increased volume of sales for this year, ranging from 25 to 100 per cent. over those at this time last year. An active demand for combine-harvesters is also noted and a large portion of implements purchased such as plows, discs, etc., have been for tractor equipment.

An Important Industry

The pulp and paper industry is the most important manufacturing industry in Canada; heading the lists in 1926 for gross and net value of manufactured products as well as for distribution of wages and salaries. A TIRED-OUT FEELING

Is a Sure Sign That the Blood Is Thin and Watery

"I am glad to have an opportunity of testifying to the benefits I derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, St. Joseph, N.B. She further says:—"Some years ago I was working as a stenographer, and became badly run-down. I always had a tired-out feeling, had no appetite and suffered terribly from backache. Almost every month I had to remain from the office for a day or two. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be glad that I followed this advice. Before I had been taking the pills very long I began to feel much better. Continuing their use my strength came back, I regained my appetite and the terrible backache from which I had suffered disappeared. I have been married some years now and have two fine healthy children, a girl and a boy, and am in the best of health. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' famous Pink Pills, and I trust that these few lines may help some other weak, run-down person."

All weak, run-down people who will give this blood-building tonic a fair trial will find through its use new health and strength. You can get the pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Demand For Canadian Wheat

Believe That Demand From Orient Will Continue To Increase

Speaking at Shaunavon, Saskatchewan, the other day, A. F. Sproule, director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool expressed the belief that the Orient's demands for Canadian wheat, which last year were greater than those of any three previous years, would continue to increase. He mentioned incidentally that the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool now has 925 country elevators and terminal elevators of 26,000,000 bushels capacity, while it is also building another elevator of 6,000,000 capacity.

The Family Rolling Stock

Resident Of Vancouver Makes a Most Interesting Discovery

Even the small family in moderate circumstances of today carries an amazing amount of rolling stock, compared with the family of a generation ago. J. Butterfield, a writer of The Vancouver Province, makes the astonishing discovery that in one modern family there exists under one management one automobile, two bicycles, one express wagon, four roller skates, two scooters, a kiddie car and a baby carriage. Then there is the lawn mower, retained exclusively for one member of the family. Forty years ago a similar household contained two items of rolling stock, a baby carriage and a collection of hoops. "Is there a hoop in all Vancouver now?" asks Mr. Butterfield—Regina Leader.

MORAL VALUE OF THE PEACE PACT IS NOW STRESSED

Paris.—Lord Cushendun, who signed the peace pact in behalf of Great Britain, Northern Ireland, and India, said that it was a great and historic event, but he cautioned against the inference that the activities of Secretary Kellogg, of the United States, in elaborating the treaty meant that the United States would depart from its policy of aloofness toward European complications.

"So far as this pact is concerned," he said, "it carries with it no implication that the American people must concern themselves with European matters."

The British minister emphasized the moral value of the pact, recalling that Napoleon once said that the great factor in war was the moral factor.

"So it is in peace," Lord Cushendun said. He added:

"No one imagines that signing this treaty will immediately and finally banish war from the face of the earth. That would be a mistake. Possibly there will still be small wars somewhere on the earth, but do not let the cynics be encouraged because the moral value of the pact remains and that is the real value of this treaty."

Lord Cushendun said that personally he divided the credit for the negotiation of the treaty between Foreign Minister Briand and Secretary of State Kellogg, but he recalled Sir Austen Chamberlain's activities of the last few years in favor of peace, and claimed for him as much credit as for any one else in the crusade against war.

Chinese Facing Starvation

Crops In Many Districts Have Been Ruined

Shanghai, China.—The population of 1,500,000 in a district 30 miles wide and 100 miles long on the border of South Chihli, and Northwest Shantung, is facing death from starvation, said Earl Baker, secretary of the New York-China famine fund committee on his return from a visit to the stricken area.

There has been sharp differences of opinion, both in China and the United States, regarding the necessity of relief measures.

Mr. Baker said he is convinced that relief must be sent at once. He stated that 150,000 persons were in an exhausted state of malnutrition and apparently doomed to death and that 30,000 were slowly starving.

Drought and grasshoppers have ruined the crops in the famine district, said Mr. Barker. He added that the grasshoppers now form part of the diet of thousands of the stricken people. One village, he said, was eating fried grasshoppers on a whole-sale scale, the insects being the only food of many houses which he visited.

Declares Navy Pact Letter a Forgery

Foreign Office Says Document Is Palpably False

London.—"We have now seen a copy of the letter which purports to have been written by Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of state for foreign affairs, to Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, concerning the alleged terms of an Anglo-French naval agreement, and we have no hesitation in declaring that the letter must obviously be a forgery. No communication, even remotely in such a sense as suggested has ever passed from Sir Austen to M. Briand."

This statement was issued by the foreign office to the Canadian Press. The document, a summary of which was published widely in the United States and Canada and occasioned a great sensation, has now been received in London and is stated to be a most patent and palpable forgery.

It is understood that the British government has cabled instructing the British embassy at Washington to deny categorically the authenticity of the document.

Air Mail Service

First Air Mail In Western Canada To Operate From The Pas

Saskatoon.—The first air mail service west of Winnipeg will be established from The Pas to Cold Lake Friday.

W. Rippingale, of the Saskatoon post office, will represent District Superintendent J. H. Hunter at the inauguration of the weekly mail service, which W. A. Rae, barrister at Cold Lake, terms one of the greatest boons ever presented to the pioneering prospectors at Cold Lake.

Formerly mail was taken to and from Cold Lake at infrequent intervals, greatly handicapping the work of the mine recording office established there last April.

The new post office will be named Kissinging, the Cree word for "cold." Under the new system mail will reach Cold Lake every Friday, returning the same day.

Peter C. Deurie, a pioneer merchant at Cold Lake, has been appointed postmaster.

Little Damage From Rust

Rust Menace In Saskatchewan Did Not Materialize

Moose Jaw.—Although conditions in Saskatchewan were propitious for a heavy rust infection during the month of July, the rust menace in Saskatchewan has not materialized.

This was the statement made here by M. P. Tullis, Field Crops Commissioner for Saskatchewan, following his return to this city from a 1,000 mile tour of inspection throughout the province.

"While the heavy crop stands and the succulence of the leaves and stems of the grain, together with the unusual amount of moisture in the atmosphere in the month of July, indicated the possibility of heavy rust infection, the rust menace has been practically negligible," said Mr. Tullis.

Canada May Be Honored

Likely To Have Representative In Court Of International Justice

Regina.—Canada may have representation on the bench of the permanent Court of International Justice, in the person of either the Right Hon. Mr. Justice Duff, or of Eugene Lafleur, K.C., of Montreal, according to an announcement made to the Saskatchewan Bar Association by the Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto. A vacancy has occurred on the bench owing to the resignation of John Bassett Moore, a renowned United States jurist, and the names of the two Canadians were submitted for election. This will occur in about a month's time.

Will Continue Vaccination

To Aid Prisoners

Toronto Chief Of Police Interested In Movement To Assist Ex-Convicts

Toronto.—If given the co-operation of churches and welfare organizations, General D. C. Draper, chief of police, said he would prevail upon the federal government to assist in a movement to help ex-convicts to establish themselves in society.

Declaring that he had personally met twenty ex-convicts who had told him they were being hindered instead of helped in their endeavor to live down their past and start life again, General Draper said he advocated dominion-wide organization of committees representative of churches and welfare associations to assist men leaving penitentiaries to obtain work and aid them to go straight.

New Seed Cleaning Station

Announcement Made That Plant Will Be Established At Saskatoon

Saskatoon.—Announcement that the government will establish a seed cleaning station here, similar to the one operating at Moose Jaw, was made by Dr. J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture, who is on an inspection trip through the West. Several other smaller stations would be established in the province, he said. Dr. Grisdale remarked on the evident prosperity throughout the Dominion, and spoke particularly of progress in the Peace River country. He said he was amazed at the results obtained by the use of phosphates in the treatment of grain at the Scott experimental farm.

Predicts Rapid Mail Service

Airplanes Will Aid Communication Between England and Canada

Montreal.—A rapid mail service by airship between Great Britain and Canada was forecast by W. G. Williams, parliamentary secretary to the British Board of Trade. There were two great airships now under construction in Great Britain, one by the government, the other by Commander Burney, and the latter was likely to have its trials toward the end of the year.

"I should be surprised," Mr. Williams said, "if we do not see the development of rapid mail communications between England and Canada through airships."

Mr. Williams was speaking at the first conference of the delegates of the Empire Parliamentary Association now visiting Canada. The conference was with members of the Montreal Board of Trade, the subject being empire transportation.

Completes Arctic Patrol

Canadian Government Ship Is On Homeward Journey

Ottawa.—The Boethic, the expeditionary ship of the Canadian government, has completed its annual patrol of Canada's Arctic archipelago and is now on its southern journey home to Sydney, N.S., which it is expected will be reached early in September.

This information was conveyed in wireless messages from the ship to the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch of the department of the interior.

George P. Mackenzie, officer in charge of the expedition, reported that there had been an epidemic last winter among the natives living around Frobisher Bay and that there had been 25 deaths, mostly children. With this exception, the health of the natives in Baffin Island has been excellent.

Aftermath Of B.C. Tragedy

Debris Found Near Seattle Thought To Be Part Of Wreck Of Missing Plane

Seattle.—Pieces of aeroplane upholstery and several tourist postcards, supposedly from the British Columbia Airways plane which disappeared Saturday morning with seven persons, were picked up on the beach several miles southwest of here.

Lt.-Commander L. L. Bennett, directing the coastguard search for the missing plane, declared he was satisfied that the fragments of upholstery were from the giant aeroplane. He ordered the search renewed in Port Discovery, where the articles were picked up by George A. Smith, fire warden, and Dr. E. E. Gleason.

With the pieces of upholstery were several fragments of felt used to insulate the body of the plane from the engine.

Prince George Crosses Canada

INDUSTRIAL GAINS ARE MADE BY GREAT BRITAIN

Montreal.—Herbert G. Williams, M.P., parliamentary secretary to the British Board of Trade, addressing the Canadian Club here removed some misconceptions about the old land.

"Some people think," he said, "that Great Britain has passed the peak and begun to decline. I am satisfied that this does not represent the truth."

As an instance he pointed out that in export of electrical machinery Great Britain before the war occupied third position with the United States and Germany first. Now Great Britain leads both the United States and Germany.

The number of people at work in Great Britain now was three quarters of a million greater than before the war, or a total expansion greater than that of Canada.

"We have made a total greater progress in the last fourteen years than you have," Mr. Williams said. It was true that Great Britain also had a greater volume of unemployment. That, too, was three quarters of a million greater than in 1914.

"We relieve the burden," Mr. Williams proceeded, "with a system of unemployment insurance which to my profound regret some newspapers describe as a dole. It is no more a form of charity than when you businessmen pay a fire insurance premium and the company pays you insurance if you have a fire."

Mr. Williams urged further development of trade between Great Britain and Canada. Trade between Canada and the United States was dollar for dollar, while Great Britain bought from Canada to the amount of two and one half dollars for every dollar's worth she sold to Canada.

"We would like to get a little of that American trade," he added.

Mr. Williams compared the results of the census of production taken in Great Britain and Canada in 1924, and said that 45 per cent. of the total population of Great Britain worked for a living while 36 per cent. worked for a living in Canada. In other words nine per cent. more people worked for a living in Great Britain than in Canada, with 50 per cent. more women working for a living.

Mr. Williams pointed out how Great Britain had been able to retain her predominance at sea despite efforts made by other countries to capture it. One attempt to capture it had been made by the people of the United States. "So far as I can see," he said, "they regret it."

Will Continue Search

Bergen, Norway.—The Russian ice breaker Krassin, searching for explorers and rescuers lost in the fatal Italia expedition, has proceeded to King's Bay where the Russian aviator Chukhnowsky joined the vessel. The ice breaker will continue to Franz Josef Land, where a base will be established.

Riots In Berlin

Berlin.—A group of communist demonstrators, protesting against the proposed construction of a new German battleship, attacked police guards here and were fired upon. Three persons were wounded seriously and a score were hurt in the rioting. Police arrested 20 after the disturbance.

Criticism Is Resented

Ottawa.—Lord Lovat's Winnipeg comment on Canada's immigration policy has caused much indignation among the officials of the Department of Immigration and Colonization. These officials are very sensitive on this question as there has been much criticism of their attitude toward British immigration.

Commissioner Eadie Dead

Winnipeg.—Commissioner William Eadie, of the Salvation Army, is dead at Balmoral, Scotland, according to word received here. For the past two years he had been in charge of the work in Western Canada.

LESSONS OF LIFE

Every person should go to the cemetery at least twice in life. Once at the end of life, and first early in life to reflect on the brevity of life and the insufficiency of worldly goods. There is no place like a quiet churchyard for meditation and there is room in every life for more serious thought.

The tombstones hold a moral for all living. There is inscribed the human virtues, but among the inscriptions there is no record of estates left behind, fortunes made and spent and worldly fame attained. The magnitude and sculpture of the stone or the vault alone remain to remind the world of "the boast of heraldry and the pomp of power."

Why should human beings worry and struggle through life's fleet span in pursuit of wealth, fame, luxuries, vanities and all those other evanescent things we choose to call riches? The poor are distressed by too little money, the moderately wealthy by the thought that others possess more wealth than they, and the rich by too much money.

The Garden of Paradise was paradise only so long as Adam and Eve entertained no thought of worldly things. There were no pestering bank accounts, troublesome servants, expensive automobiles, business worries and social and fashion detractions in Paradise.

Few people have learned the secret of living well. Most of us measure contentment in terms of dollars and social position. The number is negligible which views life as a golden opportunity to work and think and be joyful.

THE FULL PAGE AD. SELLER

As the newspaper man looks over exchanges coming from various parts of the country he is impressed with the great use that is being made of advertising. The advertising space used in newspapers has greatly increased.

Take the big city dailies, for instance. If you took the newspaper which before the war used to run an average of about 16 pages, the chances are that that paper will be running today from 24 pages to 32. The enlargement is not primarily due to the use of more news, though the space given to reading matter has increased. The big share of the increase is due to advertising.

It is interesting also to see how many concerns and interests there are that are taking big ads of a half page or full page, or two pages. The fact that so many concerns are willing to put up the money for this big display shows how thoroughly standardized advertising has become, and how much it is depended upon for results by those who use it persistently and with judgment. Fortunes are being made every day through advertising, and by this means a multitude of business men are rising out of small and inferior positions into leadership in the business community.

WEATHER IMPROVING FOR HARVESTING

Broken weather during the first two weeks in August retarded the ripening of crops and delayed harvesting a few days. The warm weather of the past ten days has, however, been beneficial in drying the grain for cutting, and in ripening the late grains, and cutting is now general over the entire province. The Peace River country reports 75% of cutting done and threshing expected to be general by next week. Central and southern parts of the province report 25 to 30% of cutting done. Very little threshing has been done in the province to date and no estimate can be made at the present time of the yield of the different grains. We do not anticipate, however, any increase in total yield of wheat over that of 1927. The quality of the grain being harvested throughout the province is good.

Frosts have occurred in almost all parts of the province, but these have been confined to small areas and the average percentage of damage from frost for the province will be small, not more than 10% at the most. Hail damage has been heavy also in a few districts, but the average for the province will be less than last year. The percentage is estimated to be approximately 14% of the insured acreage, as against 17% last year. The crop in general has been singularly free from disease and insect pests.

Labor appears to be plentiful throughout the province, wages running from $3.50 to $5.00 per day. Swathing machines and combines are being used more generally in the province than was the case last year and harvesting should go forward rapidly.

The acreage sown to wheat will be less than estimated at the beginning of the season owing to the dry weather at wheat seeding time. This land, however, was sown to coarse grains and the total acreage of the province is approximately the same as estimated.

EASTER IS NOW A FIXED DATE

The English House of Commons recently adopted the so-called Easter Bill, which provides for the stabilization of Easter, fixing the date as the Sunday after the second Saturday in April.

Easter Sunday under the present system is the first Sunday after the ecclesiastical full moon, on or next after March 21, and therefore cannot be earlier than March 22nd or later than April 25th. This year it fell on April 8th.

Fish stories are approaching the last chapter.

Experiment In Immigration

Farmers Of Western Canada Can Assist By Providing Winter Work For British Miners

An experiment in colonization on a scale never before attempted is now in progress in Canada. Ten thousand men from the mining districts of England, driven almost to desperation by an attempt to maintain themselves and their families upon the dole, have come to Canada to help with the harvest and to start life anew if the opportunity to work after the harvest is in, is afforded them. It is an experiment in which the British and Canadian Governments have co-operated and in which the railway companies and steamship lines are also assisting. And while the need for harvest help has provided the primary reason for making the attempt, the real purpose in view is to settle, once and for all, that much-discussed problem of whether or not the British-born man is any longer a desirable settler for the west.

No one can estimate how far-reaching may be the effect of the success or failure of this experiment. Failure may retard the course of British immigration to Canada for years. Failure may further the belief preached in many quarters in the Old Land, that Canada does not want the British-born. Failure may produce a general reaction which will injure Canadian prestige and Canadian credit. Success, on the other hand, will effectively silence the criticism of Canada's colonization policy. Success will give new hope and fresh endeavor to thousands of Britons who unquestionably are desirable citizens for Canada but who have been holding back because they believe they are not wanted here, or because they do not believe there exists in Canada the opportunities which are advertised. Success will enhance Canadian prestige in Great Britain and improve Canadian credit.

Speaking in Winnipeg early in August, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier of Great Britain, pleaded for a warm welcome for these men. Such a welcome would, he said, prove whether or not Canadians are genuine in their protestations that they are not discriminating against the British-born immigrant. These 10,000 harvesters have now arrived. Their welcome has been a warm one. The provincial governments, the railways and civic authorities have co-operated in making them feel at home. Work was found for all of them as quickly as they reached Winnipeg, and all of them are now drawing wages for the first time in years.

But to welcome them is not sufficient. The harvest cannot continue when winter sets in. Either work has to be found for these 10,000 men during the winter months or they must be sent back to England to spread stories of Canadian ingratitude and the lack of opportunity in this country. All of these men are willing and able to work. They will take any job that will net them sufficient to keep alive during the winter months. In the spring it will be easy to place them on the farms or in other forms of employment. But the winter months will tell the story of success or failure.

In providing work for these men during the winter months the farmers of Western Canada can assist more than any other agency. For the expenditure of a very few dollars during the winter months the farmer will be enabled to employ one or more of these men. It is true many of them will be unskilled. But the wage will be that of unskilled labor and by the time spring rolls around the man will probably have learned enough to prove of considerable value to his employer in the plowing and seeding of the fields.

Such a system does not in the least smack of charity. It is sound business practice. For the investment of a few dollars per month the farmer will have help during the winter and, with the coming of spring he will not have to face the great problem of seeking in a highly competitive market for labor. That which he will pay out during the winter months will be saved by reason of the fact that it will not be necessary for him, in the spring, to engage new help at high wages.

The governments and the railroad companies are spending tens of thousands of dollars to bring this experiment to a successful issue. It is to be hoped that the farmers and other employers of labor will also lend their aid in an issue which is distinctly national in all of its characteristics.

Farmers' Marketing Tour

Canadian National Railways' Tour To Great Britain and Denmark, 1923

Time still permitted a visit to Holyrood prior to a reception by the Lord Provost, Sir Alexander Stevenson, at the City Chambers. Holyrood, built in the French style, is still used by the Royal Family. It has been the scene of many stirring events. Cromwell stationed some of his troops there before the Battle of Dunbar, in 1650, but its chief interest to us, as to most people, was its association with Mary Queen of Scots. In Mary's Audience Chamber we saw the little oratory where she used to pray. The bed, chairs and furniture are those believed to have been used by Charles I. The walls of Queen Mary's bedroom are hung with tapestry. The hangings of the bed are of crimson damask with green silk fringes and tassels, but that this was the bed used by Mary is doubted. The most interesting of Queen Mary's apartments is, of course, the little Supper Room, where Rizzio, her private secretary, was set upon by conspirators who dragged him through the bedroom and the Audience Chamber to the head of the principal staircase. There they left his body bearing fifty-six wounds.

The Picture Gallery in the Palace of Holyrood contains the portraits of kings "who," says Scott, "if they ever flourished at all, lived before the invention of painting in oil colours."

During a visit to the Quadrangle our party was photographed as a whole, the first and only time that this had proved possible.

The reception at the City Chambers was necessarily short for we were due to reach Glasgow by six o'clock the same evening, but we shall never forget the cordiality of the welcome we received, or the happy fashion in which the dignity of a cultured city was blended with warmhearted brotherliness. The Lord Provost and the City Councillors in their red robes of office, the lofty rooms and the wonderful pictures depicting the history of the City added to the impressiveness of a happy occasion. Owing to the absence of the Lord Provost in London where he was receiving his knighthood on the following morning we were received by Bailie and Mrs. Hay.

Our earliest scheduled appointment was kept on our first morning in Glasgow when we breakfasted with the officers of the United Co-operative Baking Society at their plant, where the President, Mr. Alexander Buchanan welcomed us. Our trip through the bakeries was full of interest. In one department we saw the baking of one day's supply of the 400,000 loaves that are baked weekly. In another, wonderful machines, tended by neatly uniformed girls, obviously, happy in their work, were turning out biscuits at an extraordinary rate. Over 40,000 tins of biscuits are baked in one week, 32,000 packets of oatcakes, and 6,500 trays and boards of pastries and shortbreads. Over 100 vans are in daily use. The Society is truly co-operative, the very bakeries having been built by the Society's own maintenance staff. The United Co-operative Baking Society serves 228 co-operative societies and its annual output is worth over $6,000,000. The baking plant is the largest in Europe if not in the world.

We next visited the Shieldhall works of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, which represents the co-operative idea carried into the realm of industry and its application to the purchase, distribution and even manufacture of goods for the benefit of a number of individuals working together in their mutual interest. The Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society came into existence in 1868 through the federation of retail co-operative societies. Its initial capital was $5,000. Its capital today is $45,000,000, and its annual sales total $80,000,000. The Shieldhall Works through which we passed were devoted to the manufacture of clothing, furniture, boots and shoes. We also visited the printing establishment, where we saw the latest type of two-colour printing machine which prints in two colours in one operation.

Forty-eight factories are operated by this great Society, and it was especially interesting to us to learn that it possesses 2,140 acres of farm lands. As is well known the Society maintains an office in Winnipeg and elevators in Western Canada and it was our pleasure to meet the Canadian Manager of the Company, Mr. John Fisher, in the Shieldhall Dining Room, where we were entertained to a delightful luncheon under the cordial presidency of Mr. R. Stewart, chairman of the Society.

A full day was completed by a meeting with the representatives of the wholesale fruit, provision, grain and flour trades in Glasgow. Once more we were treated to the outspoken, business-like talk which we had come to expect when dealing with leading business figures during our tour. This particular session was perhaps the most productive of any that we had attended.

Our next day's programme had been anticipated with more than ordinary interest, for we were to visit the world's leading Clydesdale stud, probably the two most famous Ayrshire herds in existence and the wonderful Doonholm herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle; and in addition, Burns' cottage and the Brig o' Doon.

First we went to Craigie Mains, Kilmarnock, where Mr. James Kilpatrick, famed not only as great breeder of Clydesdales but as host, showed us the finest horses in his stud, surely never were nobler specimens of the Clydesdale breed ever brought together. As one beautiful animal was succeeded by another, we became lost in admiration for the truly aristocratic breeding and the high individual merit shown by the stud. Such horses as "Craigie Excellence," Cawdor Cup, and Brydon shield winner, and six times first at the Scottish Stallion Show; "Craigie Ambition," first and reserve at the Royal Highland and Scottish Stallion Show; "Craigie Exquisite," first and Cawdor Cup, Scottish Stallion Show; "Craigie Winalot," probably the best colt in the stud, and many others were seen, including several from Mr. Kilpatrick's great breeding sire, "Craigie McQuaid," whose progeny stands so high in Scottish show rings today.

But a few hundred yards from the Kilpatrick home, where we were most hospitably entertained, are the ruins of an ancient castle, the stronghold of an uncle of the great William Wallace. Close by a monument marks a spot called Burnweel, from which tradition says Wallace looked back to watch the burning of the barns in which he had barred English soldiers after a number of his followers had been treacherously slaughtered. Standing at this spot Wallace said "The barns of Ayr burn weel." Hence the persistence of the name, Burnweel.

PAUL IN ATHENS AND CORINTH

Golden Text: "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified."—1 Corinthians 2:2.

Lesson: Acts 17:16-17; 1 Corinthians 2:1-16; 1 Timothy 2:3-7.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119:9-16.

Explanations and Comments

Paul At Athens, verse 1.—After leaving Berea, Paul went on to Athens, as we learned last week. There he reasoned in the synagogue with the Jews and preached in the marketplace to all who would listen. Athens had a famous university and was the headquarters of the various philosophical schools; among them Luke mentions the Stoics and Epicureans; certain of whom encountered him and said, "What would this babbler say?" and others of whom said, "He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods," because he preached Jesus and the resurrection. Parenthetically Luke observes, "Now all the Athenians and the strangers sojourning there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell or to hear some new thing." Thus Luke explains the fact that Paul was taken to the Areopagus and asked to tell there what his new teaching was.

Paul addressed the waiting crowd. He referred to an inscription which NURSES know, and doctors have declared there's nothing quite like Aspirin to relieve all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is Aspirin the name Bayer should be on the package, and on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box:

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trade mark.

he had seen on one of their altars—"To an Unknown God"—and said that the one whom they worshipped in ignorance he declared unto them. "God who made the world does not need to dwell in temples, nor does He need anything, for He Himself is the source of all life and of all things. He made all nations brothers, he would have them all seek and find Him, but He is not far from everyone, for in Him each one lives. Being God's children, we ought not to think that our Father is like any image made by man. Their ignorance God had overlooked in the past, but now He calls them to change their views, for there will come a day when God will judge the world by One whom he has appointed, whom he has raised from the dead.

At the reference to the resurrection some of Paul's hearers mocked; others said that they would hear him again some time; and thus he was dismissed. Among those who believed his message were Dionysius, the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, but the shallow intellectualism and religious superstition of the people of Athens did not offer a promising soil for the Word, and Paul left Athens for Corinth.

Preaching To the Jews At Corinth, verses 4-6.—As usual, Paul addressed himself first to the Jews, and in the synagogue every Sabbath he persuaded, or, as the marginal rendering is, sought to persuade, Jews and Greeks to accept his message concerning the Saviour.

Silas and Timothy, you remember, had remained at Berea, and when Paul reached Athens he sent for them to "come to him with all speed" (Acts 17:14-16). They joined him at Corinth, and on their arrival Paul was able to give more time to preaching, since they brought money with them (2 Cor. 11:5; Phil. 4:15) and there was less need for his toiling at tent-making. Accordingly, he "was constrained by the word," the word had him in its grip, he yielded to the urge within him, and proclaimed more zealously than ever that Jesus is the Christ.

SUMMER COMPLAINT Nearly Lost Her Little Girl

Mrs. Theodore Rivett, Anthony, Ont., writes:—"Last Fall I nearly lost my little girl as she was suffering terribly from summer complaint. She became very thin and weak; had no appetite, and could hardly walk across the room without falling down. At last my mother advised me to get a bottle of and after she had taken a few doses she was relieved. I also found it a grand remedy for cramps, and would not be without a bottle of it in the house for anything."

CONCLUSION

At Arthur Warner's bungalow the flowers were blooming. Hollyhocks stood straight and tall against the house, with their quaint, old-fashioned rosettes in prim rows on the stalks, crimson and cream and white. Arthur had planted them, but had not seen the bloom. The walk from the house was bordered with round clumps of dwarf nasturtiums, orange and red, alternating with mounds of sweet alyssum and candytuft, white as snow, and at their feet in a straight line, marking the edge of the gravel path, ran a line of ground lobelia as blue as the skies above.

On one side of the walk stood a rockery of stones from the river, which Helmi had whitewashed, and from which now grew trailing nasturtiums, in all the shades from creamy pink to scarlet and crimson, peeping out from their glossy green leaves. On the other side was a rustic bench made gay with cushions, where one could sit and think and dream, watching the changing lights upon the mountains.

Here sat Helmi, thinking and dreaming, this Saturday afternoon in late August. Her family had all gone to Eagle Mines—Rosie and Danny Corbett who were spending the holidays with her; old Sim and young Lili, the latter now an enquiring young lady of two and a half years. The teacher, too, who boarded at the bungalow had gone with them.

Twice a week Helmi sent to town a load of vegetables and fresh fish from the English River, and steadily her savings in the bank were increasing. It seemed a long time since she had climbed into the old buckboard, with Lili on her knee, Cleo close beside her, and the pups in a box behind, and canvassed the neighborhood to see where she could get a cow "on terms to suit purchaser." She had been successful in her quest, and brought the cow home with her; the terms being that she do the weekly washing for the numerous and increasing Peterson family, three miles away.

Helmi thought of her neighbors now with real affection. They had all befriended her, and she was glad that Arthur Warner had learned to know them better. Helmi had told them quite frankly all she knew of him, and when his letters came she made no secret of them. When she made the suggestion that weekly meetings should be held at his house, where knitting and sewing could be done for the soldiers, the women gladly came, and a new spirit of friendliness came to the settlement. Every week a letter was written to him, and parcels sent, and so it came about that, though thousands of miles intervened, Arthur Warner had come to know his neighbors and they him.

No letters had come from Arthur now for several months and Helmi feared that the shadow she had seen upon his face the day she said goodbye to him, had fallen. In her dreams she had seen a luminous figure, all in white, that had walked over to Arthur and tapped him on shoulder; and he nodded his willingness and went away, and the same night Cleo had fretted and cried all night and would not be comforted.

But the boxes went every week, for Helmi and the women knew that some poor soldier would be happier for them.

Of Jack she had not had a word, and in the midst of all her happiness and achievement there was the one sore thought which sometimes required all Helmi's faith to drive away. Jack's face, so sad and drawn, drifting away from her on the slowly moving train, fell across her happiest hours. But Helmi had not forgotten the experience she had the night of the storm, when her soul was lifted high above the mists of earth.

The hearts of the women were knitted to Helmi's because she had a way of comforting them in their troubles. There was strength in the touch of her hand, and healing in her presence.

"Look what she's done for me," old Sim would often say, "when I got crippled for good and couldn't do my work in the mine any more. 'Come to me, Sim,' she said; I am all alone except for little Lili and the dogs, and I need you Sim," she says, 'for company'—makin' out I would be doin' her a favor. Look what a home she has given me."

It was Helmi, too, who discovered the seam of coal a little farther up the river, shining and hard, that burned with a blue flame and gave off more heat and burned longer than any other coal she had ever seen; and it was like her to tell all the neighbors about it and urge them to come and get all they wanted for their winter fires.

The peace which comes to those who work hard and have a clear conscience was Helmi's that afternoon as she listened to the waterfall behind the house, and through her dreaming came the happy consciousness that her family would soon be home hungry from town and she would need to go into the house and get supper ready.

The valley before her was beginning to show the purpling tints of evening as the sun wheeled its way over the mountains. A car came quickly around the turn of the hill, its wheels making no sound in the dusty road. . . . He was half way to the house before Helmi saw who it was.

That night, after the others had gone to bed, Jack and Helmi sat long before the fire. Little Lili in her pretty, white nightdress was fast asleep in her father's arms.

"Let me lay her down, Jack," said Helmi. But Jack could not part with her. "Remember I am two years and a half behind," he said. Helmi bent over him as she tucked the shawl around the little girl. "You won't leave us again, Jack, will you—not even for gold to the Nehanni?"

"Gold from Nehanni?" Jack repeated after her. "I should say not! What do I need of Nehanni gold?" Then drawing Helmi's face to his he said tenderly, "I got my gold from Finland."

Eight years have gone by. The Warner mine is one of the best in the Province, for the coal is a high-grade anthracite. Unlike most mine owners, the Dorans have not moved to the city, but have a large gray stucco house, with a red roof and many windows, on the bank of English River. Behind the house is a large grassy playground, enclosed by a high board fence, where a happy group of children and collie dogs may be seen at play. There is one old dog that walks stiffly, but is plainly the best loved of all.

Below the falls stands a green and white bath-house, into which the water is piped from the stream. It is called the "Finnish Bath-House," because there is in it a room for steam baths where the steam is formed by water falling on heated stones.

There is a recreation ground across the road, and a white church on the hillside. In the basement of the church there is a well appointed dining-room, where the boys and girls' clubs often meet for supper parties.

The bungalow is a club-house for the miners and their wives, and on the lawn there is a simple white stone with an inscription which reads:—

"Sacred to the Memory

who made the first settlement in this valley, and who loved its solitude and beauty.

In 1914

he answered the call of his country:

On January 25th, 1917

while escaping from a German prison camp, he deliberately gave his own life to purchase freedom for his companion, who now erects this stone in the hope that as long as grass grows in the valley, and water runs in the English River, the memory of ARTHUR WARNER may not fade.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Little Helps For This Week

"But now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."—1 Cor. xiii. 13 (R.V.)

More faith, dear Lord, more faith! Take all these doubts away; Oh let the simple words "He saith" Confirm my faith each day.

More hope, dear Lord, more hope! To conquer timid fear, To cheer life's path as on I grope Till Heaven's own light appear.

More love, dear Lord, more love! Such as on earth was Thine,—All graces and all gifts above, Unselfish love be mine.

British Industries Fair

To Be Held At Birmingham, England,
February 18 to March 31, 1929

The attention of Canadian Manufacturers is directed to the British Industries Fair, Birmingham, Eng., 1929, where the Canadian Government has contracted for 2,800 square feet of space. It is hoped that Canadian manufactures will be well represented at this forthcoming fair, and with a view to furnishing detailed information, advance circulars are being forwarded both to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Toronto and the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

The tenth fair will be held from February 18 to March 31, 1929, in the permanent and considerably enlarged exhibition building at Castle Bromwich, which with a total floor space of 400,000 square feet forms the largest exhibition hall in the United Kingdom. The venue of the fair is the centre of a great industrial area and is most conveniently situated for displaying general manufactured goods.

In connection with above, the Canadian Pacific Railway offers prospective exhibitors and buyers ten convenient sailings from Canada's national winter port, Saint John, N.B. Dates of sailing as follows:

Feb. 1, S.S. Minnedosa, Liverpool via Glasgow; Feb. 8, S.S. Metagama, Liverpool via Glasgow and Belfast; Feb. 15, S.S. Montroyal, Liverpool via Glasgow; Feb. 21, S.S. Melita, Southampton via Cherbourg; Feb. 22, S.S. Montrose, Liverpool via Belfast and Glasgow; Mar. 1, S.S. Minnedosa, Liverpool via Glasgow; Mar. 8, S.S. Montclare, Liverpool via Belfast and Glasgow; Mar. 14, S.S. Duchess of Bedford, Liverpool; Mar. 14, S.S. Metagama, Southampton via Cherbourg; Mar. 15, S.S. Montroyal, Liverpool via Glasgow.

Excellent accommodation is available on all these cabin class ships at winter rates, which are considerably lower than during the heavy season.

Attractive rail fares are available from all points in connection with ocean passage.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. will be glad to arrange accommodation for those planning to attend the Birmingham Fair. Requests through any C.P.R. agent will receive courteous and prompt attention.

New Serial Story

Commencing with next issue we will offer our readers a new serial story: "The Crimson West," by Alex. Philip. As might be imagined, the story deals with life in Western Canada, the plot being laid in British Columbia. It is full of life and action, and should have a particular appeal to the lovers of out-doors and to Western Canada readers generally. The story is dedicated by the author "To those fortunates who first saw the light of day in this glorious country and with whom rests the future prosperity of the land of their birth—the native sons of Canada." Do not miss the opening chapters appearing next week.

Growth Of Tree-Planting

In connection with the distribution of trees to prairie farmers in Canada which is made annually by the Tree Planting Division of the Forest Service, Department of the Interior, it is interesting to note that each spring nearly 8,000,000 young trees are sent out; shipment of these trees require 2½ carloads of moss and nearly 10 miles of 45-inch burlap. Before many years are gone, the "Treeless Prairie" will be a thing of the past.

So far nobody has climbed the Matterhorn on roller skates or ridden up Niagara Falls on a bicycle, but it would look as if about everything else had been tried.

Teeth and Health

THE BICUSPIDS

"Count them"—two in line back of each cuspid, making eight all told. "Bi-two-cuspid"—tooth with one point, or "cuspid"—so this, then, is a two cuspid tooth.

(You have doubtless observed, however, that the inner cusps of the lower tooth is but rudimentary—a modified form of the original full cuspid. Then, they are also called pre-molars—again our Latin—"pre," meaning "before"—you see why?)

This tooth erupts generally from the tenth to the twelfth years, and though chiefly utilitarian, yet it serves a cosmetic function as well, to prove this save up your best joke and tell it to your neighbor—then slyly observe the open space marking a missing bi-cuspid which you had probably not noticed before.

To paraphrase: "Loud laugh betrays the vacant space."

Now, there is a danger peculiar to the upper bicuspid which is this. This tooth lies in a position just below the "antrum," or air sinus that is situated in the large facial bone, the upper maxillary, and frequently just a thin shell of bone forming the floor of the antrum, separates the latter from the end of the root or roots.

Should, then, decay proceed so far in this tooth as to infect the pulp, causing it to die, with a resultant abscess—it occasionally happens that pus will burrow into the antrum, infecting it and with dire consequences—generally necessitating an operation at the hands of the surgeon.

Tell your dentist that you want your teeth kept well, not just made well. The responsibility is then his.

Canadian Butter Consumption

The per capita consumption of butter in Canada in 1926 has been estimated at nearly 28½ pounds and the consumption of cheese slightly over 4 pounds.

What Will
you do

When your Children Cry
for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhoea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

HOW EDITORS GET RICH

Once again we are forcibly reminded of just how editors get rich. Here it is in a nutshell:

There is a child born in the neighborhood. The attending physician and nurse get $10 each; the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster a great send-off and gets $0.00. It is christened and the minister gets $5, while the editor gets $00.00. It grows and marries, and the editor publishes another long-winded, flowery article, and tells a dozen lies about "the beautiful and accomplished bride." The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake; the editor gets $000.00 and a request to carry the groom's subscription account another year. In the course of time she dies. The doctor gets $25 to $100; the undertaker $220. The editor publishes a notice of the death, an obituary a column long, another column of letters of sympathy from various lodges and private parties, a lot of terrible poetry, and a card of thanks, all of which costs in actual labor $32.50, for which he receives $0,000.00. No wonder so many country editors get rich.
